SRM Name: Microcopy Resolution Test Charts

Under the U.S. Department of Labor, Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA) 29 CFR 1910.1200, this Standard Reference Material (SRM) is NOT classified as a physical hazard or a health hazard, a simple asphyxiant, combustible dust, pyrophoric gas, or hazard not otherwise classified. There are no hazard pictograms, hazard statements or signal word associated with it. Safety Data Sheet information is not required. This document may be used in conjunction with your hazard communication program.

Exemption: 1910.1200 (c). This SRM is an Article, as the word is defined by OSHA, where Article means a manufactured item other than a fluid or particle: (i) which is formed to a specific shape or design during manufacture; (ii) which has end use function(s) dependent in whole or in part upon its shape or design during end use; and (iii) which under normal conditions of use does not release more than very small quantities, e.g., minute or trace amounts of a hazardous chemical (as determined under paragraph (d) of 1910.1200), and does not pose a physical hazard or health risk to employees.

Description: This SRM is intended to be used to determine the resolving power of microcopy systems in the photographic industry. It was designed to meet the general requirements for ISO Test Chart No. 2, as described in ISO 3334: 1989. A unit of SRM 1010a consists of five identical charts with 26 patterns printed on white photographic paper with a glossy surface. Each chart is nominally 90 mm wide by 113 mm high.

Disposal: SRM 1010a should be disposed of in accordance with local, state, and federal regulations.

Transport Information: This material is not regulated by the U.S. Department of Transportation (DOT) and/or International Air Transportation Association (IATA).

Disclaimer: This document was prepared carefully, using current references. Users of this SRM should ensure that this document and the corresponding Certificate in their possession are current.
