SRM Name: Low Alloy Steel

Under the U.S. Department of Labor, Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA) 29 CFR 1910.1200, this Standard Reference Material (SRM) is NOT classified as a physical hazard or a health hazard, a simple asphyxiant, combustible dust, pyrophoric gas, or hazard not otherwise classified. There are no hazard pictograms, hazard statements or signal word associated with it. Safety Data Sheet information is not required. This document may be used in conjunction with your hazard communication program.

Exemption: 1910.1200 (c). This SRM is an Article, as the word is defined by OSHA, where Article means a manufactured item other than a fluid or particle: (i) which is formed to a specific shape or design during manufacture; (ii) which has end use function(s) dependent in whole or in part upon its shape or design during end use; and (iii) which under normal conditions of use does not release more than very small quantities, e.g., minute or trace amounts of a hazardous chemical (as determined under paragraph (d) of 1910.1200), and does not pose a physical hazard or health risk to employees.

Description: This SRM is a low alloy steel and is intended for use in the evaluation of chemical and instrumental methods of analysis and in calibration of those methods. A unit of SRM 1764a consists of a disk approximately 34 mm in diameter and 19 mm thick.

Disposal: SRM 1764a should be disposed of in accordance with local, state, and federal regulations.

Transport Information: This material is not regulated by the U.S. Department of Transportation (DOT) and/or International Air Transportation Association (IATA).

Disclaimer: This document was prepared carefully, using current references. Users of this SRM should ensure that this document and the corresponding Certificate of Analysis in their possession are current.
